

Fintech Investment Management Solutions for the Middle East >>>

Capital markets are increasingly turning to new technologies to deliver efficiencies, increase productivity and enhance service offerings. UK companies, including Delio and Engine, are supporting the sector with new tools and partnerships that help customers, such as banks, make trading and investing more transparent and accessible for their Middle East customers.

Delio

UK fintech Delio has developed the technology, expertise and network to power the private market strategies of the world's most respected financial institutions. Its configurable, white-labelled digital platform enables firms to connect their clients and partners with alternative investments while driving growth, mitigating risk and improving operational efficiency. More than 90 banks, wealth managers and investment firms already trust Delio to deliver their private markets proposition to a global audience of investors. Delio won its first enterprise client in the Middle East last year and is actively seeking to partner with organisations to meet the unprecedented investor demand for alternative assets.

Engine

The UK Investment Association's fintech hub and accelerator was set up in 2018 to fuel the adoption of technology within investment management for the benefit and changing needs of clients. The company works with 150+ fintech firms and partners across the investment value chain. These initiatives open up tech-driven possibilities and actively connect the investment management industry with start-ups that can offer real solutions to real problems that impact different parts of the business such as operations, distribution, compliance, and investment. Engine has established a strategic partnership with Fintech Saudi, the initiative launched by the Saudi Central Bank, known as SAMA, to drive the Kingdom's fintech ecosystem.
